What part of your daily work brings you the most fulfillment? Seeing the spark of learning ignite in students' work during our time together and watching them embody who they truly are as they continue doing the multisensory work together.

What motivates you to continue growing in your role? A few words that truly motivate us: acceptance, inclusivity, allowing all learners to learn, research-based movement to enhance study skills and understanding. Getting to use alternative approaches to learning, coupled with movement and watching it actively and positively change students' performance. As shifts in education continue, the need for this work is real, and Multisensory Mentor will be here to help students realize their full, validated potential.

What advice would you give someone hoping to follow a similar career path? Create an environment where everyBODY feels safe and open to learn, develop true connections with your students, and follow Mr. Rogers' three keys to success:
1) Be Kind 2) Be Kind 3) Be Kind.
